

'You Finally Got Me,' Suspect Told Police

"Inspector, you finally got me. I guess this is the end of the trail."

These were the first words David Berkowitz, the man accused of being the .44-caliber killer, reportedly said to Inspector Timothy Dowd, who directed the special homicide task force on the largest manhunt in New York's history.

"After he was given his rights, I took him aside and spoke with him," Inspector Dowd said. "I knew I could talk with him. I told him we had never abused him or criticized him in the press, and he agreed."